LESSON FOR MAY 23

ISRAEL'S FIRST KING.

LESSON TEXT—I Sam. 8:15-10:24.
GOLDEN TEXT—Only fear the Lord, and serve him in truth with all your heart.—I Sam. 12:24.

ADDITIONAL MATERIAL—I Sam. 8:14;
9:14, 10:26-28.
PRIMARY TOPIC—Saul Visits Samuel.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Saul Chosen as King.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—
—Kingly Qualities in Saul.
—YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—
—The Selection of Leaders.

I. The People Demand a King (vv. 8:1-9).

1. Their reasons for this demand.
(1) Samuel was incapacitated by old age; (2) the unfaithfulness of his sons whom he had appointed as his successors; (3) the desire to be like other nations. The surrounding nations had a king as leader. They wanted a king who would go out and fight their battles (see v. 20). The desire to be like others causes many to depart from the Lord.

2. Samuel's behavior under this trial (vv. 9-10). He took the matter to the Lord in prayer. The Lord comforted him by assuring him that this rejection was not merely his rejection, but the rejection of the kingdom of God.

II. Samuel Tells of the Manner of the Kings (vv. 10-18).

He shows them that the king will be very exacting and arbitrary in his dealing with them.

1. He will take their sons and make them to serve in the army and do all kinds of hard work on his farm and in his house. He will make slaves of their daughters, also.

2. He will take their lands, even those inherited from their fathers and give them to his favorite officers and servants. Not content with that he will take the tenth part of the produce that remains and give to them.

III. Samuel's Protest Disregarded by the People (vv. 19-22).

Having made up their minds they deliberately shut their eyes to the truth and rushed madly into the experiment. Men today just as deliberately are turning from God's King, going after the lusts of their own hearts, but God makes the wrath of men to praise him.

IV. The King Provisionally Pointed Out (1:10-18).

Saul was sent by his father to search for the asses that had wandered away. While Saul and his father were acting freely in this matter, at the same time God's sovereign purpose was being carried out. Although difficult to understand, God carries forth his sovereign purpose without interfering with man's freedom.

V. The King Chosen at Mizpeh (10:17-27).

The Lord had already pointed out to Samuel who should be king and Saul had been anointed. Let us observe:

1. Why Saul was chosen. If they would have a king the Lord would give them the one best suited to fill the place. He was from Benjamin, a small tribe, which would prevent undue rivalry between Ephraim and Judah, the leading tribes of Israel. He was also chosen because of his personal fitness (v. 24). He had the natural qualifications for his work, namely, self-control, modesty, and a military instinct.

2. How Saul was chosen. The method was by lot. Samuel called them together before the Lord, and before the lot was cast he again remonstrated with them against such action. He showed them the base ingratitude of their rejection of God as their King.

3. How the king was received by the people. Saul knew that the Lord had chosen him, but through modesty and fear he shrank from the responsibility. By inquiry of the Lord his hiding place was made known. When he was brought forth Samuel presented him to the people, assuring them that Saul was the Lord's choice. Some were enthusiastic in their reception and shouted, "God save the king!" Others mocked and refused him allegiance.

VI. The King Confirmed at Gilgal (ch. 11).

Soon after the election at Mizpeh the Ammonites made a desperate demand upon the men of Jabesh-gilead. Saul hearing of it, hastily summoned the tribes together for war and won a remarkable victory. As he thus proved his ability the people wished to punish the sons of Belial, but Saul forbade them. Samuel took advantage of this auspicious situation and called all the people together at Gilgal where they formally crowned him their king.

Growth.

All fruits grow—whether they grow in soil or in the soul. No man can make things grow. He can get them to grow by arranging all the circumstances and fulfilling all the conditions. But the growing is done by God.

The Most Insignificant.

The most insignificant people are the most apt to sneer at others. They are safe from reprisals, and have no hope of rising in their own esteem but by lowering their neighbors.—Hazlitt.

The Whole Secret of A Better Tire

Simply a Matter of the Maker's Policies

This you will realize—once you try a Brunswick—that a super-tire is possible only when the name certifies that the maker is following the highest standards.

For tire making is chiefly a matter of standards and policies—cost plus care. Any maker can build a good tire if he cares to pay perfection's price.

All men know Brunswick standards, for Brunswick products have been famous for 74 years.

Formulas, fabrics and standards vary vastly in cost. Reinforcements, plies and thickness are a matter of expense. And these variations affect endurance. It rests with the maker how far he wishes to go—how much he can afford to give.

For there are no secrets nor patents to hold one back.

To ascertain what each maker offers one must analyze and test some 200 tires—as our laboratories have done.

Then it is a matter of combining the best features and building according to the highest standards.

Once you try a Brunswick you will understand how we have built model tires, regardless of factory expense.

Yet Brunswick Tires cost you the same as other like-type tires. Our saving is on selling cost, through our nation-wide organization.

We realize that you expect more from Brunswicks, and we assure you that you get it. ONE Brunswick will tell you the story.

And then you'll want ALL Brunswicks. No other tire, you'll agree, gives so much for your money.

The Pavesi Motor Plow.

The Pavesi motor plow now on the market in Italy, has been given thorough tests before government officials, who have pronounced it superior to any other such implement manufactured or offered on the Italian market. It is said to be in every way adapted to the agricultural needs of the country. The Pavesi draws from one to six plows, has four motor wheels and a frame movable in every direction, and can not only move over uneven ground but cross ditches and overcome banks unsurmountable by any other machine. Its minimum turning radius combined with its low center of gravity, adapt it to all grounds and slopes and make it impossible to overturn under any conditions. The plow is also said to be of great durability and simple construction so that its upkeep cost is reduced to a minimum.

Tale-Telling Tails.

There is only one insect which enjoys the luxury of a tail, and it is to be found in the northeast of Tasmania. This insect is a pale greenish-brown color, and its body when full grown is just about the size of a sunflower. In times of peace the tail—which is three-eighths to a quarter of an inch in length—lies placid and straight but when on the warpath it is drawn up into an angry, vertical position. The mosquito is its enemy. Its domestic life is a mystery, and for when old enough to be independent it does not mate and takes full possession of its parental web.

Walking Sticks and Canes.

The general use of canes was at one time forbidden in Rome by Imperial edict, except to persons of patrician rank. The women of that time carried them also. The cane appeared in England as the badge of aristocracy in about the fifteenth century. Later came a period of decoration and canes of exquisite design resulted.

Dig Up Ancient Stone Coffin.

A stone coffin containing a human skeleton was unearthed at Wellbank quarry, in Lechee, Scotland, not far from Dundee, by a number of workmen who were engaged cleaning away a quantity of loose soil. The discovery was reported to the authorities, and scientific examination is to be made to discover, if possible, at what period the coffin with its human remains was placed in its vicinity. There is no burying ground near Wellbank quarry, and as it has been in operation for many years without any trace of the ground having been previously disturbed or used for any purpose it is difficult to account for the discovery that has been made.

The Penguin Tribe.

Birdologists have been arguing for years over the little penguin that is to be found round the coasts of Australia and Tasmania. Some authorities who are not authorities contend that there were two species, the "little penguin" and the "fabry penguin." Others who thought they knew better said that there was only one species. The argument appears to be drawing to a close. After the murder of many of the "vischills" (I've been bitten by them), the taking of innumerable measurements and even a report by a well-known doctor on their blood-beat, the decision appears to be that the penguin tribe is in the midst of a transitional period, and that probably in years to come two distinct clans will be discernible. At present, at any rate, they can be classed as one.

Author-Diplomats.

Several American authors have served as ministers—not ambassadors, as that title had not then been created—to more than one foreign country. John Lathrop Motley and John Hay each served as United States minister to Austria and to Great Britain; George Bancroft as minister to Prussia and to Great Britain; Washington Irving as minister to Great Britain and to Spain; James Russell Lowell as minister to Spain and to Great Britain, and Gen. Lew Wallace as minister to Mexico and to Turkey.

Baseball takes brains and so does football. Any good student ought to be good baseball and football players.

Average Weight of Horse.

The average weight of a mature farm horse for the United States is 1,203 pounds. Washington, the most northwestern state of the Union, has the highest state average, 1,350 pounds, seconded by Maine, the most northeastern state, with 1,325 pounds. Lightest-weight horses are found in Florida, the most southeastern state, with an average weight of 850 pounds. Mature mules on farms of the United States average 956 pounds. Washington again leads, with 1,110 pounds, followed by Oregon, with 1,100 pounds. Lightest mules are found in Mississippi, where the average is 865 pounds.

Fortune Telling by Bones.

It is strange that in the Transvaal the belief in Kaffir doctors and their wizardry has not died out. Nearly every old Kaffir has always with him a bag of bones—knuckles and joints of animals. With these he pretends to be able to foretell the future. He throws the "dolos," as they are called, and then reads out the omens. Should a white man wish to confer with the oracle, he must throw the bones himself. Many white men firmly believe in the ability of the Kaffir doctor to cure them from sundry ills, and in Rhodesia there have been many cases where the Kaffir doctors have saved whites from the ravages of the terrible fevers that rage there, in addition to coping successfully with toothache and other ills.

A WORDLESS WOOING

By VICTOR REDCLIFFE

(Copyright, 1920, Western Newspaper Union.)

It was a mere whim that induced Ronald Baird to attend the monthly dance given at the deaf mute asylum at Leesville. He was the guest of his old college chum, Bert Adsit, and the latter had mentioned the function as one likely to interest him.

"Most of the patients are ladies," Bert told Ronald, "and you will be pleased to realize how quick and intelligent they are, and how heartily they enter into a social enjoyment. We will go together."

Adsit was the town attorney. Ronald was a young man, well-to-do and engaged in the banking business with his brother in another town. Adsit handed him a little well-thumbed volume.

"Study that in your odd moments," he suggested. "If, as, you see, a deaf and dumb instruction book, quite common hereabouts, for we come into contact with our afflicted charges so generally that a knowledge of the finger signs makes it quite easy for us to make ourselves understood, and to understand the patients."

Two days before the dance Adsit was called away to another town. At first Ronald decided not to attend the function. He got looking over the alphabet book, however, was enticed by the novelty promised, found it not difficult to master the rudiments of the code, and Thursday evening found him seated in the capacious dining room of the asylum which was very prettily decorated as a dancing hall.

Ronald's attention was particularly attracted by a young girl who seemed friendly with everybody, and she was welcomed with a fervor that showed she was a general favorite. Ronald mentally confessed that he had never viewed a more beautiful face. She was a model of neatness, and the grace she displayed amid the giddy whirl was something to remember. It was after he had followed her with admiring gaze through several dances that Ronald observed her seated alone and approached her.

"May I hope for the favor of one dance?" he translated, a mute sentence he had especially mastered.

The young lady responded with a number of rapid finger signs, her expressive eyes and gracious smile indicating that his plea met with acquiescence.

The pathos of sincere pity for this afflicted young lady was obscured after that as he recalled the lovely face that had so completely captivated him. Ronald waited impatiently for a return of Adsit. It was the third morning after the dance that Ronald was afflicted with a roaring fit, and took his automobile for a spin out the country roads. He was returning at a smart rate of speed along a rather rutty and irregular one. At a part of it where a sharp curve ahead showed, from the direction of a pretty home sheltered by some grand old trees, he observed a little, girlish figure hurrying towards its gateway. She wore a blue cape and was waving her hands in an excited manner, and Ronald thrilled as he recognized her—his brief partner of the asylum dance.

"Stop—don't go on! The road!" Ronald caught the token of peril in the manner of the girl, rather than in the words. He put on the brakes, but not until he had turned the curve to see ahead a great gap in the road guarded by a plank stretched lengthwise, bearing in chalk the ominous warning:

"DANGER—look out!" A false turn of the wheel sent the machine skidding, it struck a deep rut and halted, but so suddenly that Ronald was lifted bodily from the seat and thrown down a slight incline, at the bottom of which he landed momentarily insensible.

He awoke some few minutes later to find himself prostrate, and under his head was a pillow formed of the blue cape, and standing pensively over him with a concerned face was the beautiful girl of the dance. Instantly her hands were in motion.

"Are you hurt much?" signaled forth the alphabetical signs.

"But you spoke a few minutes ago!" exclaimed Ronald, sitting up.

The young girl flushed. "I—I had met you before," she stammered. "I thought you were a patient at the asylum, or an afflicted visitor. Many outsiders come to those dances, just as I do. In fact, I have some very pleasant friends there."

"I saw that," declared Ronald. "I fancy you are a friend to everybody. See how your thoughtfulness has been bestowed on my unworthy self!" and his hand fondly caressed the blue cape.

Verna Tresham laughed heartily over their mutual mistake at the asylum. Ronald must come to the house and put some cold water on his contused forehead, and that was the beginning of daily visits.

"What are you so engrossed in?" queried Bert Adsit a week later as he noticed his friend poring industriously over the mute alphabet.

"Oh! I have a whimsical conceit to tell a certain young lady what I think of her in the sign language," replied Ronald with a quiet smile.

"Miss Tresham, I suppose?"

"Yes."

"And the message you are thinking over?" pressed Adsit.

"Simple, compelling, I think; 'I love you. Will you become my wife?'"

FARM ANIMALS

BEEF ANIMAL FOR HOME USE

Unprofitable Cow or Heifer That Does Not Promise to Be Good Producer May Be Killed.

The farmer buys more beef than he takes from the farm. Only about 10 per cent of meat furnished by the average farm is beef. In the North and West the average consumption of beef per family is nearly 300 pounds and in the South it is less than 100 pounds. The beef animal killed for home use, suggest specialists of the United States department of agriculture, may be a beef steer or an unprofitable cow, or a heifer that does not promise to be a good producer and would not bring a good price for beef on the market. STEER-FEEDING EXPERIMENT

Cottonseed Meal and Velvet Beans Used With and Without Addition of Shelled Corn.

In a steer-feeding experiment conducted last year on the government farm at Beltsville, Md., four lots of two-year-old steers were fed. The purpose was to compare cottonseed meal and soaked velvet beans when used with and without the addition of shelled corn.

The addition of corn to a ration composed of corn silage, cottonseed meal and wheat straw did not pay. The addition of corn to the ration of velvet beans and corn silage was profitable.

The lot receiving corn silage and soaked velvet beans with a small quantity of cottonseed meal as an appetizer produced the most economical gains and showed the greatest profit, even though the daily gains and the selling price of the cattle were lower than those of any of the other lots.

TO DOUBLE VALUE OF STOCK

President of Michigan Association Wants Every Farmer to Agree to Use Only Purebreds.

St. Joseph county, Mich., plans to double the value of its live stock within three years. Current activities to accomplish the purpose are described by William T. Langley, president of the St. Joseph County Live Stock Breeders' association, in a statement he has furnished the United States department of agriculture.

"We want every man," he declares, "to give us a pledge to use nothing but purebred sires."

"We have a sign in the making that reads 'Purebred Sire Farm' that we want posted on every farmyard gate."

"We want nothing but high-grade and purebred females."

A general association has been organized that includes the members of the various breeding associations and also all breeders of grades that pledge to use only purebred sires.

GROUND RYE BEST FOR PIGS

It Is Better Mixed in Equal Parts With Middlings, Ground Oats, Barley or Corn.

It is generally recommended that rye be ground for feeding to pigs. It is best mixed in equal amounts with middlings, ground oats, ground barley or corn. If the mixture is placed in the self-feeder, care must be taken to see that there is a good supply of water available for the pigs. They should have continual access to salt also.

Over fifty years ago a young physician practiced widely in a rural district and became famous for his uniform success in the curing of disease. This was Dr. Pierce, who afterwards established himself in Buffalo, N. Y., and placed one of his prescriptions, which he called "Golden Medical Discovery," in the drug stores of the United States so that the public could easily obtain this very remarkable tonic, corrective and blood-maker. Dr. Pierce manufactured this "Discovery" from roots and barks—a corrective remedy, the ingredients of which nature had put in the fields and forests, for keeping us healthy. Few folks or families now living have not at sometime or other used this "Golden Medical Discovery" for the stomach, liver and heart. Over twenty-four million bottles of this tonic and blood remedy have been sold in this country.

MORE GOOD THINGS FOR SUNDAY SCHOOL WORKERS

Word comes to the Bedford County Sabbath School Association that on June 1st, the first day of our County Convention, they are to have an added feature, one that comes to us unexpectedly and one that will add much to the Association's already strong program.

Monroe County, that County that has made one of the very best records in the state for Sunday School efficiency, has a lady for its County Chairman, and one who not only knows how to accomplish things in County Sunday School work, but who has proven it can be done.

Mrs. W. B. Easton, of Monroe County, is that lady, and she, in connection with several other live wire Sunday School workers will motor across the state to be in attendance at the Lawrence County Convention, and have agreed to stop over in Bedford on June 1st for our Convention.

As our State Secretary says, these people know how to "deliver the goods" when it comes to Sunday School work and you can be congratulated in securing them.

This is another inducement that every Sunday School in Bedford County be well represented at our coming County Convention to be held in the Reformed Church in Bedford on June 1st and 2nd.

Local committees are already at work and the convention program is complete in every sense of the word. Bedford is centrally located and that in itself will make it easy of access to the convention delegates.

It is believed this will be the largest convention Bedford County has ever had and it is here you will meet interested Sunday School workers from every part of the county. It is going to be a big privilege to those who are appointed delegates to this convention.

MRS. LEWIS TURNER

Mary Catherine Hausman Turner, was born August 26, 1870 and departed this life on Saturday May 1st, 1920. She leaves to mourn her departure her husband, Lewis Turner, six children, Fred, Ethel, Herbert, Margaret, Elias and Chester, an aged mother, one sister, Mrs. Jordan Kerr and one brother James Hausman. Funeral services were held in the Dry Ridge Reformed Church of which she has been a faithful member since 1891 and were in charge of Rev. J. Albert Eyer.

The host of friends who gathered at the little church to pay a tribute of respect to her memory was a fine testimonial to the high esteem in which she was held in the community in which she spent her life. Any mother would be missed by her children, but Mrs. Turner will be especially missed, both because some of her children are yet very young and because she was an especially good mother. She is not dead, she only sleepeth, awaiting the gathering to her of the loved ones whom God gave her here upon the earth. "Blessed are the dead who die in the Lord, their works do follow them."

Having enlisted in the army shortly after he was seventeen, Comrade Smith was the kid of Co. H. 55th Pa. until 1862 when we had several recruits much younger. We are glad to say that Comrade is much more rugged now than he was five years ago and bids fair to live to a good old age.

The fare for the round trip will be $3.39 which will make about $4.41 from Bedford. The Headquarter train will leave Altoona 1:40 P. M. June 7th.

LITERARY CONTEST COMPLETED ATHLETIC MEET FRIDAY OTHER ITEMS

Patrons of the school who were present at the Literary Contest held in the Assembly Hall last Friday afternoon will testify to the excellent talent of the local school. All the selections were very good. The judges were in consultation for almost an hour which is indicative of the fact that all the contestants did splendidly. Adl who took part in the contest deserve the greatest praise and credit. The final game deciding the championship will be played on Friday afternoon between the Juniors and Freshmen and will form one of the most important features of the inter-class athletic meet. On Friday afternoon athletic events will be in order. The management has provided for about twelve separate events and everybody in high school will have an opportunity to select at least one of the events. There will be individual and class competition.

On Friday morning beginning at 9:00 a. m. the State Scholarship Examination will be held in the local school under the supervision of the local school authorities. The examination will be conducted along with the regular work of the High School.

Due to the fact that the schools have participated in a number of special events, and because of the shortness of the time remaining it has been decided to omit the May Day fete. The administration hopes that the parents will appreciate this decision in view of the facts above mentioned and because the pupils will need the time to prepare for the examinations.

Senior examinations were held this week, and the scholastic work of the graduating class is practically completed. This is an indication that the school term will end soon. Baccalaureate services will be held on May 30, Class Day exercises on Tuesday evening June 1, and Commencement on June 2. The Senior Class Play will be given on Friday evening May 28.

Counterfeit Stamp Has Mumps

The Treasury Department is issuing a warning to Postmasters and to thrifty persons hereabouts to be on their guard against buying counterfeit War Savings Stamps. Fraudulent blue stamps of the 1919 series have been made by counterfeiters and being sold to the unwary.

"But the frauds can be easily detected," the Secret Service men say. "Ben Franklin's picture appears on the stamp, and in the counterfeit stamps, Old Ben seems to have the mumps in the left jaw. Indeed, there is a pronounced swelling. Then under the portrait the lower of the two left dots is comparatively indistinct and the vertical opening between the lines in the lower left part of the numeral '2' in the date '1924' is closed. The principal feature of the fraud, however, is the swollen cheek."

"It should be remembered that the counterfeit is only of the 1919 series and like the original, is blue. Blue War Savings Stamps can no longer be brought from post offices or other authorized agencies. Only the 1920 stamps, which are red, now being sold by agencies. Sales of last year's stamps are not legal. No one should buy a 1919 stamp, though it is true some have been improperly offered for sale."

"Everyone who bought 1919 stamps last year may feel perfectly safe," the Treasury Department says "because the counterfeit was not made until after the first of this year. The blue stamps had then been withdrawn from sale by the authorized agencies, and the red 1920 stamp was being sold. Don't buy any 1919 stamps, and keep a look out for the picture of the man with the mumps. If you see one let your Postmaster know."

ECONOMY CLAIM EXPLODED

The economy claim of Republican House Leader Mondell and others of his party in Congress has been completely exploded by Representative Byrns, of the Appropriations Committee. Mr. Byrns analysis showed that the Republican claim of having saved the Treasury millions upon millions of dollars was founded on nothing more than the fact that actual appropriations were below departmental estimates. There have been few Congresses that have not cut departmental estimates way down when the time came to make appropriations for this Congress were well founded, then the last Congress, in which the Democrats were in the majority, may claim to have saved the taxpayers more than five and a half billion dollars, and the Democratic Congresses that have sat during the two Wilson administrations may claim a total saving of more than nine billions of dollars.

But economy claims must be measured by appropriation for ordinary purposes, as carried in the big annual supply bills, and for these purposes, almost without exception the Republicans have made increased appropriations this year.

As everybody who has taken the trouble to analyze the Republican claim knows, it is based on a "paper saving", and is made with no other purpose than to try to fool the people.

Senator Penrose's caustic comment than any Republican who is for Hoover for the Presidential nomination is insane will not be eminently pleasing to the thousands of Western progressives who have expressed a preference for the former Food Administrator.

Chairman Hays' committee of 171 varieties seems to have evoked nothing but ridicule from Republican members of Congress. Most of them know that when platform writing time comes, Mr. Penrose will attend to that little detail.

WORLD WAITS ON AMERICA.

As has been sharply called to the attention of the Senate by Bernard M. Baruch, former chairman of the War Industries Board, there can be no normality in production and no substantial reduction in living costs until peace is restored to the world, and peace awaits the action of the United States Senate. Hundreds of thousands of Europeans are still under arms, each country fearful and watchful of its neighbor; so long as they are under arms, they may not be employed in productive pursuits, and they will continue under arms until the United States ratifies the peace treaty and lends its guarantee to a status of peace.

America will be at peace when a recalcitrant and politics-playing Senate forget partisanship long enough to ratify a constitutional peace, and the passage of no makeshift resolution like the Knox-Porter resolution will suffice.

GEORGE POINTS, Adm
May 21—28.

Chairman Hays of the Republican National Committee, says that the people of America are more interested in "the stomachs of our own people" than in the "hearts of the world." If Mr. Hays' fellow Republicans who are in the majority in the Senate had thought more of hearts of the world as well as the stomachs of "our own people" several months ago, the supply of food-stuffs with which to satisfy the cravings of the stomach would have more nearly caught up with the demand. In large measure, the troubles over here are due to the unsettled state of affairs "over there", which keeps thousands of men from productive employment and increases the drain upon the granaries of the productive countries. Most of our discomforts are the result of the war, which would have been formally proclaimed at an end many months ago, had certain Republican Senators not been more-partisan than patriotic.

Fewer than thirty working days remain for Congress, if the G. O. P. leaders adhere to their plan to adjourn about June 1st, and the budget bill sent over to the Senate from the House many months ago is still sleeping. Given bi-partisan support and generally recognized as a much-needed reform it ought to be put through without delay. The responsibility is with the Republican majority for under the method of procedure followed in the present Congress, no minority member can get any measure reported out from committee without the permission of the majority. The majority assumed responsibility for the budget measure, making glowing promises as to the early adoption of this much-needed reform, but it has failed to make good its word.

Early Garden Seeds Missing
Recently nice bags of Congressional early garden seeds have been received by Harry James at Bedford United States Senator; but up to the hour of this writing not a seed has been received by The Gazette. Our help know our Congressman and Senator too well to think for a minute that they would neglect their constituency in that way. The failure of the seed to reach us is a mystery and we are about to chase Harry with taking advantage of the public by taking the peas and beans for making soup. Those who have in past years tried them both ways say these Congressional peas and beans are better for making soup than for planting. Our Congressman will be appealed to to make probe at Harry's action in this matter.

NEED QUALIFIED SHEPHERDS

Important That Sheep Raising Be Encouraged Where Conditions Are Suitable for It.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

"I am not convinced that a general campaign to increase the number of small-farm stocks of sheep is thoroughly wise unless the field for such an effort is first prepared," said Dr. J. R. Mohler, chief of the bureau of animal industry, in an address before the More-Sheep-More-Wool association. "There must be established a popular understanding of principles which experienced sheepmen are likely to take for granted.

"With dairy herds we find that best methods of production seldom prevail when only a few animals are kept. The owner of a very small herd is not often interested in better breeding, feeding or disease control. He is not a dairyman. But when he has a herd of a dozen cows or more he becomes a real asset to a great dairy business.

"So with sheep. We must aim, it appears to me, not so much for an increase in the number of flocks as an increase in the number of sheep kept by men who are real shepherds or have the qualifications and desire to become shepherds. Nor should we forget that farmers in general may not be versatile enough to add a profitable flock of sheep to their present live stock. It is, therefore, important that sheep raising be encouraged chiefly where the land and other conditions are suitable for it."

MANY ASSOCIATIONS FORMED

One of Purposes Is to Eliminate Scrub Sires and Replace Them With Purebreds.

Fifty-nine live-stock breeders' associations, with a reported membership of 1,521, were organized during the last fiscal year with the help of the United States department of agriculture extension specialists. In addition numerous calf clubs were organized among the boys and girls. Much of the work is being done in regions where the beef-cattle industry is practically new.

One of the purposes of beef-cattle extension activities is to eliminate scrub bulls and replace them with purebreds of good quality. The federal workers co-operate with the state agricultural colleges through their extension divisions and particularly with county agents.

SILAGE FOR LITTLE CALVES

Heavy Ration Fed to Young Animals Has Tendency to Cause Repeated Scouring.

Young calves under a year old do not benefit from a heavy silage ration, because on such young animals it has a tendency to cause repeated scouring. It can, however, be satisfactorily fed to calves between six months and one year old, provided it is limited to a small part—say not more than one-third—of the weight of the entire ration.

GREATEST DEMANDS ON EWES

Imperative That Animals Be in Proper Condition Prior to Lambing for Best Results.

It is during the suckling period that the greatest demands are made on the ewes, and in order to have the ewes in condition to stand this drain on their systems it is necessary for us to see to it that they are in good condition of flesh prior to lambing.

MAKE PROFIT OUT OF LAMBS

Young Animals Must Be Fed for Period in Dry Lot on Harvested Feeds for Top Price.

While it is entirely possible to make money out of lambs by feeding entirely in the fields, yet to make market toppers they must be fed for a period in the dry lot on harvested feeds, some feeders combining field feeding and dry-lot feeding at the same time.

POULTRY

PULLETS MAKE BEST LAYERS

It Seldom Pays to Keep Hens for Eggs After They Are 2½ Years Old—Young Fowls Favored.

There are people who have the right variety of fowls, who house and feed them properly, and yet who cannot obtain eggs early in the winter because their fowls are too old. It seldom pays to keep hens for laying after they are two and one-half years old; not that they will not give a profit, but that younger fowls will give a greater profit, says the United States department of agriculture. A great many poultrymen who make a specialty of winter egg production keep nothing but pullets, disposing of the one-year-old hens before it is time to put them in the winter quarters.

Flock of White Leghorn Pullets.

The champion of the girls' poultry clubs of Mississippi keeps nothing but pullets.

Early hatched pullets, if properly grown, ought to begin laying in October or early November and continue to lay through the winter. Yearling hens seldom begin laying much before January 1 and older hens not until later. It is the November and December eggs that bring the high prices. The laying breeds should begin laying when about from five to six months old, general-purpose breeds at six to seven months, and the meat breeds at eight to nine months.

VARIETY OF FOOD FOR HENS

Fowls Easily Obtain Different Things Necessary to Make Eggs and Maintain Body.

Constantly feeding one or two grains only compels the fowls to eat more than they ought to and make their digestive systems work too hard trying to get all the different food elements in sufficient quantity out of this material. By feeding a variety of food the fowls are not obliged to consume so great an amount and they can more easily obtain the different things required to maintain the body and make eggs.

SIMPLE REMEDY FOR WORMS

Give Twenty Drops of Turpentine in Milk or Water and Mix in Mash for Morning Feed.

For worms in poultry give 20 drops of turpentine for each 12 adult chickens; less for smaller chicks. Put that amount in one quart of milk or water; mix in mash in morning. No other feed; also put one teaspoonful of copperas in each gallon of drinking water.

POULTRY KEPT AS SIDE LINE

Hardly Any Activity of Modern Farming Which Will Pay Better Than Flock of Hens.

Properly developed and fostered, poultry is one of the most profitable side lines in which most farmers can become interested and, at present, there is hardly any activity of modern farming which will pay better than the maintenance and production of good poultry.

POULTRY NOTES

Spade up the yard frequently.

Get rid of all surplus cockerels.

Feed table scraps and kitchen waste.

Keep the hens confined to your own land.

Fowls stand cold better than dampness.

Hatching eggs should be selected only from healthy, hearty, vigorous parent stock.

Yes, sir, the poultry business of America is more important than we realize.

Two quarts of scratch feed twice a day in the litter makes a fair allowance for 25 hens, if they have plenty of mash and vegetables besides.

They used to call a man a "sport" when he bought an automobile

THAT was before the days when pretty nearly everybody owned one—or could, if he wanted to.

There was a lot of waste about motoring in those days. A man spent a lot of money on his car and never thought very much about what he was getting in return.

When a man buys a tire nowadays he has a pretty definite idea of what he expects to get out of it.

The dealer who sells him one that gives him less than he expects isn't likely to get any more of his business.

That's one of the reasons why we handle U. S. Tires—and recommend them to the motorists of this community.

The U. S. reputation for quality is not built on any one tire.

There is not one standard for large U. S. Tires and another standard for small ones.

Every tire that bears the name "U. S." is built the best way its makers know how to build it. The oldest and largest rubber concern in the world cannot afford to play favorites in seeking its public.

Come in and tell us what you are looking for in tires.

We can probably tell you whether you need a U. S. Nobby, Chain, Usco, Plain, or a Royal Cord.

Select your tires according to the roads they have to travel:

In sandy or hilly country, wherever the going is apt to be heavy—The U. S. Nobby.

For ordinary country roads—The U. S. Chain or Usco.

For front wheels—The U. S. Plain.

For best results—everywhere—U. S. Royal Cords.

Couldn't Hurt That Toad.

There are many surprising stories about toads, observes Philip Hale, editor of the "As the World Wags" column in Boston Herald. Here is one of them, taken from a book containing the names and crimes of people in Northumberland, England. In 1793 a stone mason, Mr. George Wilson, "wantonly murdered" a toad in a wall he was building, making for the toad a close cell of lime and stone, to fit it snugly, and plastering to prevent the admission of air. Sixteen years afterward a gap was made in the wall so that carts could pass through. The toad was found alive. Torpid at first, it was soon active, so that it made its way to a pile of stones and disappeared. There were cruel men in Northumberland. Mr. Thomas Anderson was punished in 1681 for playing on a bagpipe before a bridegroom on a Sunday. Among the women, Elizabeth Mills was brought into court for scolding and drying fish on the Lord's day.

Again, Swat the Fly.

The number of bacteria capable of being carried by one house fly varies from 550 to 6,600,000. Hence a crusade against this pest which is most numerous during the season of the year when epidemics are likely to occur will play a great part in prevention and spread of any malady.

In the Spotlight.

I invited a friend to go with me to my country home during the hot weather, and we arrived there on the hottest night of the season. Tired from our journey, we retired early, and after a vain endeavor to sleep my father suggested a ride in his car. We sneaked out of the house and into the car, clad only in our "nighties" and slippers. After a run of a mile the car stopped dead under an electric light swarming with all forms of insect life. A thunderstorm was brewing and my father manfully cranked, cursed, and perspired—all to no avail. A night watchman in a nearby factory saw our dilemma and came to our rescue by calling a taxi, and two extremely embarrassed young women made a swift transit from one car to the other under the full glare of the spotlight.—Chicago Tribune.

Best Cure for That Feeling. The Lord made Adam and Eve full grown and put them in a beautiful place where they didn't need to work, and at the very outset they began to rebel. Then he made them go to work. If you feel like you are about to break loose, go to work.—Houston Post.

Nation of Drug Addicts.

Practically all of the natives of Peru are drug addicts. The coca plant from which cocaine is made has been cultivated by these natives since prehistoric times, its leaves being chewed to get the desired effect. It has been estimated there are at least 8,000,000 persons living in the central part of South America that are chewers of coca. Use of the leaf is said to enable them to withstand the effects of great altitudes and to develop physical strength and endurance. By frequent resort to coca, moreover, the Indians can go for long periods without food, without any apparent disastrous effects.

Chinese Babies.

It is not at all uncommon for the dead bodies of Chinese infants to be cast away, instead of being buried. The charitable explanation is that this is done to save burial expenses. The true reason, however, is said to be the deeprooted superstition of belief among them that the death of a baby arises out of punishment to its soul for sins committed in a previous state of existence. It is an accursed creature, whose coffin no one will follow. It is, therefore, a common sight in China to see dying babies laid down by the roadside to breathe their last. The parents will not allow them to die in the house, the belief being that infants, after their death, become wicked spirits. To allow them to die under the parents' roof will bring nothing but evil upon the family.

Thomas Jefferson's Bible.

In 1904 congress caused to be reproduced in photolithographic form the so-called Jefferson Bible, or more correctly, "The Morals and Life of Jesus of Nazareth," extracted textually from the gospels in Greek, Latin, French and English, by Thomas Jefferson. Texts were cut by him out of printed copies of Greek, Latin, French and English Testaments and pasted in four parallel columns on blank pages, which later were bound in red morocco, ornamented in gilt, and titled on the back in gilt letters, "The Morals of Jesus." The original is in the United States museum at Washington, and 9,000 duplicate copies for the use of congress were printed in 1904.

Valuable Brazilian Plant.

The carnauba palm of Brazil like the bamboo of Asia, serves varied purposes. Young leaves are coated with the wax that was in such war demand and is normally made into candles and gramophone records. Older leaves yield a good fiber, which is prized for mats, hats and hammocks. They also form roofs for cabins or huts, and the trunk supplies timber for the structures and for fine cabinet work. The root is employed in medicine. The tree's fruit is food for man and farm stock, another plant part supplies a kind of sago, the seeds are not only rich in oil, but are roasted as a coffee substitute, and young leaves are eaten like cabbage. A nutritive portion of the pith is fermented into a pleasing drink.

When the Auto Was New.
In March, 1897, in the New York Journal, a writer described his first motor car ride as follows: "In search of a new sensation I went yesterday and rode in a horseless carriage. I dreamed once that I walked down Fifth Avenue in my pajamas in the full tide of the afternoon promenade and almost died with shame before I awoke. Yesterday I had something of the same strange feeling as I sat there and felt myself pushed forward into the very face of grinning staring and sometimes leering New York."

Nothing New Under the Sun.
We have inherited, it appears, a great box of playthings and the student of history will find that none of the toys are new—they have indeed been played with by forefathers, who did just as we do. They took each toy from the world and had never seen its like. Had it not, indeed? Then he toy—be it charity, or war—is thrown back again, where it lies until it is dragged forth, with the claim that it is new.—Exchange
